Winners to be announced Thursday 22nd November 2012 at 2pm!
Schools from across the country have been learning the GenerationOne theme song Hands Across Australia and spreading the message of Reconciliation with the Warumpi Bands 'Blackfella, Whitefella' song.

Pic Above: Lorrinda Meerypor & Jesse Ahmann (The Morning Bulletin)

Lorrinda Merrypor is proud of the attitudes towards Aboriginal people at her school. So much so, the Emmaus College indigenous student and her friends are showcasing it to the world. The Year 11 student is one of the lead singers in a student produced music video based on the Warumpi Band's 'Blackfella, Whitefella' song. The video has been entered in The Creative Change GenerationOne School competition, aimed at shrinking the disparity between the opportunities and outcomes for indigenous and non-indigenous young people. Emmaus College and Tannum Sands State High School have joined more than 170 schools around the country in the competition. One primary school and one secondary school will win a prize of $15,000. A People's Choice Award will also be awarded to the school which receives the most votes from the public. Hurry and get voting!!!!
